Says French Countess Murdered By Spy Seeking A-Bomb Secrets

PARIS (Reuter) — Leon Meurant, a Belgian mechanic arrested after the murder of French Countess Sauty de Catlon, told French police the countess was "strangled by a spy in search of atom bomb secrets," a Paris newspaper reported.

In September, 1945, the countess told her husband she was going to Groningen, Holland, and was said to have left her home in an automobile with two Canadian officers, the paper said Wednesday.

Her unclothed body later was found in a ditch near Masnieres, northern France.

Belgian, Dutch and French police took part in the search which finally led to the arrest of Meurant, who was living in Germany in the guise of a medical officer.

DENIES MURDER

Meurant, now in Doupai prison awaiting trial in April, was said by police to have confessed to having been a secret agent for a foreign power but to have flatly denied murdering the countess, the newspaper said.

Police say he gave this "cloak-and-dagger" account of how the countess met her death:

"I am certainly a spy for a foreign power and I had an important position.

"At the Palace Hotel in Brussels where I was on a mission I made the acquaintance of the Countess Sauty de Catlon on the day she arrived.

"An officer wearing an American uniform, but who had the exact appearance of a Mongol, pointed her out to me in the hall of the hotel.

"He told me: 'It is necessary to watch this woman, so as to get to know her.' My companion was my superior. I obeyed.

"The countess playfully told me: 'You are a French officer. You can do me a service. I want to return to Paris.'

"I agreed to take her.

AGENT FOR U.S.

"After lunch I had a second interview with the Mongol, who told me: 'Stay with her. Don't let her out of your sight. This woman has in her brief case important documents about the atom bomb. She is an agent for the United States counter-espionage.'

"I rejoined the countess, who invited me to her room."

Meurant said he was later left in a car with the countess he was followed in a jeep by "the Mongol."

"At Tournai," he continued, "we had a good dinner and the countess and I began to get very drunk.

TOOK CLOTHES OFF

"When we resumed the journey the countess, who was completely drunk, took her clothes off, saying it was hot in the car."

Later, Meurant said, he stopped to check his gasoline, when "the Mongol" appeared and strangled the countess with a silk stocking.

"He made me swear on my honor as a secret service agent to keep silent," Meurant continued.

"He threw the body into a ditch, covered it with sand and disappeared."

Wolves Lose Race

HUNTSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Three timber wolves entered into a test of speed with a C.N.R. freight train near here Wednesday—and lost. Now there are three mangled wolves on the right-of-way. They succeeded in keeping ahead of the train for a long way, but slackening of speed cost them their lives.

Auto Workers Ask For Overhaul Of Used Car Ceilings

Complete overhaul of used car price structures will be asked of Donald Gordon, Wartime Prices and Trade Board chairman, by the Automotive Maintenance Workers' Union (A.F.L.).

"The present regulations are making dishonest persons out of otherwise decent law-abiding Canadians and while the membership decidedly favors price control they feel that prices should be set on an equitable basis," the union reported following a meeting Wednesday night in the Labor Hall.

It was noted that present prices, described as "ridiculous," allowed a "jalopy" of 1928 or 1929 vintage to fetch prices as high as $300 and yet the ceilings on 1938, 1939 and 1940 models ranged from $300 to $500.

The union felt that, if fair prices prevailed for second-hand cars, many persons would sell their vehicles to veterans and others badly in need of transportation. Such a move would help dealers, repairmen and the public, the union contended.

The union will also request the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to establish in all large centres an impartial appraisal board composed of automotive experts to appraise the value of every car. This would protect the purchasing public.

Often, the union said, older cars were in better condition than more recent models.

BACKS SAFETY APPEAL

The union endorsed the appeal of Commissioner T. W. S. Parsons of the B.C. Police who had asked that the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council do everything within its power to reduce accidents by encouraging safer driving.

A request of the labor council that the City Council set up a safety committee of civic and police officials along with representatives of transportation firms also was endorsed by the union, which decided to ask representation on that committee.

Letters will be sent to Commissioner Parsons, Chief J. A. McLellan and Mayor Percy George informing them that the union will fully support all endeavors to rectify the alarming [illegible]

A letter will also be sent to the City Council urging it to establish a safety testing station similar to the station operated in Vancouver. Such a station would be in the best interests of motors and public, the union felt.

Eyewitness Tells College Of Trial

An eyewitness account of the Nuernberg trials was given by W. A. "Bill" Doe at the International Relations meeting at Victoria College Wednesday night.

Mr. Doe is a student at Victoria College and while serving overseas as a Flight Lieutenant in the R.C.A.F., he was given the opportunity to attend part of the trials. He was there when Julius Streicher was on trial.

The plan of the courtroom, proceedings and incidents that occurred while Mr. Doe was present, and the public address system's microphones which could translate four languages, were described by Mr. Doe.

A discussion followed with many of the students presenting and debating questions concerning the Nuernberg trials.

MUSIC APPRECIATION

A student's recital was sponsored by the Music Appreciation Club at Victoria College, Wednesday noon. This was the first concert given at the college and it displayed a wealth of talent. Students who participated included: John Redford playing two piano selections, Brahm's "Intermezzo" and Shubert's "Moment Musical" No. 6. Helen McKenzie played the andante and first variation of Beethovan's "Sonata Opus 26", Brahm's "Waltz in A flat" and a Chopin "Prelude"; Miss Adele Coult sang Gershwin's "Summertime" and the ever-delightful "Think On Me," and "My Johanne"; and Miss Maureen Little played as her piano selection, "Pastorale," by Scarlatti.

Rodney Sykes was the master of ceremonies. Dick Lipsey is president of the Music Club.

Snow Brings Lay-Off

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Heavy snowfall above Summit Lake from the base camp of Campbell-Mannix companies up beyond the four line camps on the Pine Pass Highway clearing, has resulted in the lay-off of 175 highway workers the past week. A skeleton crew of 25 men is being kept on for maintenance work.

Talk Night Patrol For Street Lights

The street lighting committee will discuss the practicability of instituting a night patrol to change burned-out lights in the cluster light system, Ald. F. G. Mulliner, chairman, said today.

He said that the extra labor costs of a night patrol would probably be more than offset by the present cost of putting on whole circuits of lights for hours at a time during the day so that the electricians can see which bulbs are burned out.

Exonerate Captain In Ship Sinking

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The Oregon State Board of River Pilot Examiners today exonerated Capt. E. P. Gillette of any responsibility in the sinking of the freighter Drexel Victory, but the cause of damage to the vessel remained uncertain.

The board held Gillette, who piloted the vessel over the Columbia River bar Monday, had discharged all his duties "in a competent manner." The vessel sank early Tuesday after rescue of all crewmen.

Kerosene Blast Fatal

STEINBACH, Man. (CP)—Mrs. Lillian Reimer, 28, died in hospital here Wednesday as a result of burns suffered in a kerosene explosion. The explosion resulted in a fire which destroyed her home two miles from here. Mrs. Reimer, in a blazing nightgown, ran for help. She was found to be suffering severe burns and badly frozen feet on her admittance to hospital.

Australia Tightens Immigration Laws

CANBERRA (Reuter)—Immigration Minister Arthur Calwell today announced restrictive changes in Australia's alien immigration laws.

His action follows closely disclosures of current investigations into bona fides of certain immigrants particularly from the Far East, after the discovery of two Sydney refugee organizations—one Communist-controlled and the other dominated by White Russians—exposed by the Canadian spy ring trials at Ottawa.

The Commonwealth investigation branch of the Australian Customs and Immigration Departments found that immigrants sponsored by these rival refugee organizations carried large sums of money and some refugees coming to Australia were in Japanese-occupied territories, but were not interned, during the war.

Calwell said today that no more permits granted purely on humanitarian grounds would be issued as the government felt it had gone as far as could be reasonably expected in this matter. Future permits would be more selective from the point of view of the migrants' ability to contribute to the economic welfare of the country.

Last Prisoners Sail

MELBOURNE (Reuter) — Some 400 Italian prisoners of war and 1,469 German prisoners sailed for home Wednesday on the 20,097-ton British liner Orontes, the last batch of prisoners of war in Australia for repatriation.

Saskatchewan Towns, Snowbound For Nearly 2 Weeks, Get Supplies

REGINA (CP) — Isolation ended for residents of Riverhurst, Sask., early today when a Canadian National Railways train pulled in, bringing food and supplies to the tiny community. Riverhurst, together with 50 other southern Saskatchewan towns, has been isolated by snow drifts, described as the worst in 40 years, since Jan. 10.

The 110-mile run from Regina took almost 12 hours.

At Mawer, 30 miles southeast of Riverhurst, the train was greeted by most of the 77 persons living there and farmers of the immediate district. The general store was expected to remain open to distribute necessary supplies.

Towns along two other lines, however, Bengough and Goodwater, southeast and southwest of here, respectively, would not be reached until sometime today.

Meanwhile stocks of food and fuel dwindled to the danger point.

At Goodwater, 80 miles southwest of Regina, Dr. William Mainprize of Midale was expected to fly in with a light plane to make his weekly visit. The physician usually arrives by rail or snowmobile.

WORST SINCE 1910

Fred T. Hill, publisher of the Weekly Gazette at Riverhurst, said the drifts were the worst he had seen since he had come to Saskatchewan in 1910. The last train to reach the town arrived Jan. 10.

"Old-timers tell me the winter of 1906-7 was the only one to beat it," he said.

Shortages of bread, butter, sugar and yeast were common in many of the snowbound towns—none of which has a population of more than about 300—but housewives were baking their own bread and at Bengough Paul Wenads reported from the general store that "everybody's eating biscuits."

The men feared a tobacco shortage more than they did short food rations.

C. A. Kelly, general store merchant at Goodwater, said "We haven't seen anything like this since 1916 when the rails were blocked for six weeks."

But with relief near, the situation in some places at least did not lack its humorous aspects. At Hodgeville, 100 miles southwest of Regina, George Rambow found he didn't have to shovel the drifts from his hen house at feeding time. He just drops the feed through the shack's chimney.

GET CHRISTMAS MAIL

BABB, Mont. (AP) — Inhabitants of this tiny northwest Montana community, marooned for weeks by heavy snows, spent today opening Christmas packages and reading a backlog of mail.

The 300 townspeople, who had been snowbound off and on since mid-December and marooned completely since Dec. 30, turned out en masse Wednesday to welcome a seven-truck convoy loaded with food, fuel oil and mail.

Storekeeper-postmaster Oscar Thronson quickly disposed of seven tons of fresh butter, milk, vegetables and other foods, distributed a truckload of mail, and declared: "Believe me, everybody's glad it's over."

Trucks bearing additional supplies continued to arrive.

News Of The Island

Start Tree Planting In Nanaimo Soon

NANAIMO—Seventy-five men will be wanted within six weeks by the reforestation branch of the Provincial Forest Service, John Carrigan of the national employment office said here today.

The men will be used to plant fir trees in the Cassidy and Horne Lake areas. The planting will occupy about six weeks, and the Horne Lake workers will board in camps near the project.

The young fir trees, about eight inches high, are obtained from the Department Nurseries at Quinsam Lake, near Campbell River, and also from Cowichan Lake.

Mr. Carrigan also reported there was plenty of unskilled labor seeking jobs in the district, but key men for the logging and sawmill industries were scarce.

Alberni Company To Build Homes

PORT ALBERNI — Sale of land on a site in the army camp to Bloedel, Stewart & Welch Co. Ltd., has been approved by the City Council.

The company intends to erect homes for its pulp and paper employees. About $350,000 is unofficially reported to be involved in the project, the cost to be borne entirely by the company.

Flying Field For Duncan

DUNCAN — Residents here have begun to press for an airplane landing field as well as a base for seaplane landings.

T. Garner, who has just returned from a tour of the United States, reported at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, that all communities in that country were taking steps to provide landing fields.

Mr. Garner recently purchased a seaplane which he intends to base at Somenos Lake.

Logs Obstruct Cowichan River

DUNCAN—Ways and means of removing a tangle mass of logs and debris which has blocked the upper reaches of Cowichan River near Skutz Falls, for a number of years, is being studied by fisheries officials here.

Last year the jam reached such proportions that the department had a passage bulldozed around the obstruction.

Fishermen are of the opinion that fishing in the river would improve if the jam was removed.

It has been suggested that a portable sawmill be put beside the jam, which is now said to contain several million feet of timber. However, it was pointed out in order to carry out this plan it would be necessary to obtain permission from the owners of the logs before they could be sawed into lumber.

Every Man For Self In Antarctic Claims

LONDON (AP)—A policy of every man for himself in staking claims to Antarctic lands was outlined today by an official source, who said the government favored unilateral claims.

But, he added, Britain would not recognize claims to Antarctica based on assertions that some countries are connected to the polar regions by an undersea "continental shelf."

Outlining the government's views, this source said there are three grounds under international law by which a claim to unexplored land can be made.

1. Discovery.
2. Occupation within a reasonable time after discovery, although this squatting need not be permanent.
3. Applying administration suitable to the area.

On this basis, he said, Britain claims several areas under letters of patent in 1908 and 1907. The areas are the Falkland Island Dependencies, including the South Orkneys; South Shetlands, South Sandwich Islands, South Georgia, Graham Land and Coats Land.

Britain recognizes, he added, two Dominion stakes—New Zealand's claim over the Ross Dependency based on an order-in-council dated July 30, 1923, and Australia's claim to the Australian Dependency defined by orders-in-council dated Feb. 7, 1933.

The informant stated that Britain had no evidence of any radioactive substances—potential sources of atomic energy—in the Antarctic in sufficient quantity to make them of any concern at the present time.

Market Loss Feared If Ration Continues

WINNIPEG (CP)—Present retail prices for dairy products were described here today by J. Peter Nadeau, deputy administrator for dairy products with the Prices Board, as not being out of line with exisiting economic conditions.

Nevertheless, he told the annual convention of the National Dairy Council of Canada, a downward trend in consumption was evident, this trend being apart from that compelled by rationing and other restrictions imposed on dairy products.

The removal of the consumer subsidy last June did not affect sales to any extent, he said, but the price boost and removal of the producers' subsidy last October had resulted in a slight decline in milk sales.

The president of the National Dairy Council, Robert C. Smellie, warned members they would have to consider how long Canadians would accept present restrictions on the sale of dairy products without becoming so accustomed to substitutions that their desire for milk and cream and their by-products would become negligible.

U.S. General Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt.-Gen. Roy S. Geiger, one of the top United States Marine Corps leaders of the Second World War, died today in a naval hospital. He was 61. Geiger commanded the 10th Army on Okinawa and later the Fleet Marine Force in the Pacific.

'No Talk' Policy On Germ Warfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Army, startled by public discussions of germ warfare in recent months, has cloaked the whole subject under a "no talk" policy.

While the desire for secrecy is understood to be an important factor in banning further reference to a weapon rated by some scientists as equal to the atomic bomb, some quarters in the army also have been concerned over what they regard as extravagant statements about research progress.

Instructions which have come from top levels prevent bacteriological warfare experts from explaining their reasons for believing the present status of the weapon is over-rated in the public mind.

The War Department during the last year has officially disclosed some information bearing on its research in germ warfare. This has included the fact that (a) the study has been centred at Camp Detrick, near Frederick, Md., and (b) that both laboratories and a "pilot plant" were built there during the war.

The reference to a "pilot plant" has been assumed to mean that some of the toxic agents had reached the point of development where they were ready for mass production if ever needed.

In general, the program is two-fold: To perfect means of combatting mass attack on the United States with poison warfare and to devise means of retaliation.

'Customer' Gets $658

PORTLAND (AP) — A gunman who at first posed as a customer needing a loan held up the Consumers Credit Company second floor office Wednesday and escaped with $658 in cash.

Dorothy Sheehan, employee, said the man asked to see the manager. When R. H. Fields appeared he pulled a gun and helped himself to several cash drawers, police said.

Killed By Train Near New Westminster

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—A pioneer resident of B.C., Gilbert Tullock, 76, of Crescent, died in hospital here Wednesday a few hours after he was struck by a Vancouver-bound Great Northern Railway train at the Crescent railway station.

Witnesses said the elderly man was crossing the tracks and apparently failed to see the approaching train in time to get clear of the tracks. He was rushed to hospital here on the train.

Crescent is 18 miles south of New Westminster.

MR. ANSCOMB'S PLEDGE

AS LONG AS THE MENACE OF COMmunism and Socialism remains a threat to the economic life and freedom of the people of British Columbia, the Progressive Conservative Party of this province will continue to support the Coalition administration, now in its sixth year. The foregoing represents the categorical promise which Hon. Herbert Anscomb, who shares the direction of the government with Mr. Hart, made to his radio audience last night. As the leader of his political group, both in and out of the Legislature, the Minister of Finance has never wavered in his allegiance to and support of the Premier—the veteran parliamentarian who has borne the heat and burden of the day and whose reputation as a sagacious administrator is acknowledged far and wide.

Thirteen minutes on the air does not give a speaker much latitude in which to deal with many matters of public interest. But if Mr. Anscomb had uttered no more than the single sentence we have quoted above he would have amply justified his appearance before the microphone for the allotted span of free time. And the Minister of Finance, of course, knew that he echoed the sentiments of hundreds of thousands of British Columbians—especially that very substantial element which, regardless of ancient political affiliations, has no intention of exchanging the most businesslike government the province has ever had for a legislative experiment with any of the imported "isms." The minister nevertheless did well to reiterate his own and his party's stand.

SHOWING CONFIDENCE

APART FROM THE IMPORTANCE OF the deal itself, the explanation given by Evans, Coleman and Johnson Bros., Ltd., for their purchase of the C.N.R. property and docks in the Inner Harbor is significant to all Victorians. The firm announced that facilities at its command before the acquisition of the new holdings were inadequate to meet its needs. Although acreage has been disclosed, the nature of the purchase suggests a heavy investment by the supply interests and manifests, in itself, the confidence of level-headed businessmen in the future of the community they serve.

Gratifying as this development is in its reflection of a healthy condition in the building field, it will be hoped, nevertheless, that the purchase does not entail loss to the city of those marine interests represented by the Pacific Salvage Co., Ltd., which has leased Pier A and the Island Tug and Barge Ltd., sub-tenants of part of that accommodation. Very material advantages are suggested both for the salvage company and the towing concern as well as for the community by location of their vessels here.

The purchase, it will be noted, marks further activity in the increasing changes of ownership and improvement of this section of waterfront from the harbor northward to Johnson Street Bridge.

HARMONY ON FOREIGN POLICY

TWO ITEMS IN THE NEWS YESTERday were related to the future of General George C. Marshall, until recently President Truman's special envoy to China, and now Secretary of State at Washington.

One was to the effect that this eminent American soldier-diplomat had issued an unequivocal reply to suggestions that he might be considered the nominee of the Democratic Party for the presidency in 1948. To put all such rumors and speculation at rest, he made it quite clear at the ceremony of his swearing in that he would "never become involved in political matters," and that he "never could be drafted."

The other was that the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee had invited General Marshall to give that important body of the Upper Chamber on Capitol Hill a comprehensive outline of his views on American foreign policy.

While this invitation doubtless will be accepted with alacrity by the new head of the Department of State, General Marshall also will have appreciated to the full the specific intimation from Senator Vandenberg—who heads the committee—that he and his colleagues desire to co-operate fully with the new cabinet officer in the conduct of his work.

The sentiment to which the Republican Senator from Michigan gave expression took on a new quality of sincerity, moreover, when it was coupled with a postscript indicating that General Marshall could have all the time he required in which to set a date for his appearance before the all-powerful Senate body. It is indicated, indeed, that it would be agreeable and probably advisable for the Secretary to attend the Moscow meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers in March before making his official presentation to the committee.

In connection with the categorical decision of General Marshall to eschew involvement in political matters—linked with his implied warning against any attempt to draft him in 1948—the Congress will require to enact legislation to change the presidential succession. As Secretary of State, of course, and in view of the fact that there is no vice-president, if Mr. Truman should retire from office or die before the end of his term, the newly-appointed Secretary would be required by the constitution to take over the presidential office.

Senator Vandenberg's friendly assurance of full co-operation with General Marshall, incidentally, is further convincing evidence that the Republican Party, as represented by its prominent internationally-minded members, evidently is solidly behind President Truman's "State-of-the-Union" message—which included the statement that the United States had no intention of retreating into the backwoods of isolation.

NOT VERY CONVINCING

NO MATTER HOW THE GOVERNMENT at Ottawa takes Canada out of her wartime economy into the more orderly ways of peace—whether it continues to pursue its present policy of gradualism or takes a series of plunges—it will be the butt of criticism from other parties. The latest complaint against the administration's de-control program comes from Mr. M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, who told a radio audience last night that the federal ministry's return to "a so-called free economy" is "staunchly backed" by the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties.

That peculiar statement will seem to the most casual observer of the national political scene at complete variance with fact. We seem to recall that spokesmen for the C.C.F. and the other two opposition parties during the recent by-election campaigns have harped on the alleged ineptitude of the King government in respect of every obligation it is expected to discharge in the public interest—particularly in the economic realm.

What is obviously worrying Mr. Coldwell, of course, is the difficulty he is encountering in keeping in check those of his followers who are beginning to complain out loud of his inability or disinclination to hear or heed the crack of the extreme left's whip. On several occasions in recent years the national leader of the C.C.F. Party has felt compelled to admonish certain of the more vocal exponents of "advanced" Socialist philosophy. The famous "Calgary speech" with which Mr. Harold Winch revealed how far the provincial leader had wandered from the doctrinaire realm must have caused Mr. Coldwell many anxious hours.

It was not likely the people of British Columbia would soon forget the formula which the younger Winch prescribed for them in the event of his acquiring sufficient support at the polls to enable him to form a government in this province. And the national leader saw the "pay-off" when the electors returned the Coalition administration by a thumping majority 15 months ago. But Mr. Coldwell must maintain a bold front for party purposes—whether he really believes all he says or not.

NEW VERSION

WE THINK THERE IS SOMETHING essentially valuable in the story from Newark of the candy store proprietor who bought a punchboard from a strange salesman. When he unwittingly allowed the salesman's disguised accomplice to punch out $30 worth of slips he was amazed. Realization of the manner in which he had been duped came slowly. If there is any moral to the story, it should prove that nobody can beat a "sucker" game. And it may serve to remind a public with money in its pockets that there are a lot of men at present anxious to separate them from their wealth. The variety of bunco games is legion. They range from the old Spanish Prisoner swindle to the familiar "hot" race tip that has been practiced frequently in this province. There is no sure protection against them for the gullible. But the offer of something for nothing should make most prospective victims wary.

VOLSTEAD AND CAPONE

THE READING PUBLIC OF THE CONtinent this week contemplated the coincidence which brought into the news on succeeding days the names of Andrew J. Volstead and Scarface Al Capone. The death of the father of the United States prohibition law of 1919 and the report on the health of the once powerful gang leader, who rose to international notoriety through conditions which the enforcement of that law created, furnish a reminder of a unique chapter in the domestic history of our neighbor. Few have doubted the good faith of the ardent "dry" who championed the anti-intoxicants campaign in his country. None could doubt the fact that attempted enforcement led to the growth of the social cancer represented by the racket typified by Capone.

Thousands worked honestly and earnestly to abolish the use of alcohol as a beverage in the sincere belief that their efforts would eliminate the misery and distress its abuse had caused. They saw, instead of public enlightenment, the development of a monster which laughed at the law and found sympathy among so large a proportion of the population that the law itself lost dignity. The evil phenomenon of the "mob", heedless of rights and life itself, rose to mock them. And when prohibition ended, the underworld organization, callous, obscene and terrorising, remained.

With the principles which spurred Volstead in his campaign many will agree. To the outcome of it, few will give endorsement. The incidence of the news prompts again consideration of the malevolent effects of a cause which many thought was inspired.

Racism In Britain

By FRANK B. WALKER, from London

IN ASSESSING reports of race prejudice in Great Britain, it would be well to remember at all times that the British people have a passion for freedom and justice that can be matched nowhere else on earth.

They have proved their faith times without number. Civil liberty is supreme in England. Religious freedom is fully respected. To British shores for sanctuary and help have come refugees, political exiles and revolutionaries from all lands. British justice has been recognized as the image of equity. The endangered cause of freedom, the independence of small peoples, the hatred of tyranny have stirred Englishmen and made them crusaders for the right.

When persecution struck down the Jews of Europe, tiny England found a home for more refugees than were admitted to the United States or to the under-populated Dominions. The friendship of Britain for Poland is well known and needs no emphasis here.

THE BRITISH PEOPLE have not repented of their generosity. The nation which issued the Balfour Declaration promising national freedom to the Jewish people still wishes to deal justly with the Jew, even though daily outrages break out in Palestine and the illegal activities of terrorist groups feed the prejudices of extremist minorities that are to be found in any country. But the heart of the British people is sound. The vocal groups guilty of this prejudice should not be confused with the great bulk of silent, decent, compassionate, liberty-loving Englishmen.

But the longer terror rages in Palestine the harder will it be to restrain extremism in England, the wider will the poison of prejudice spread in other countries, the more deeply will world opinion be estranged from the justice that resides in the Zionist cause. It is with these considerations in mind that the following report on signs of race prejudice in England should be read and pondered.

IT IS PROBABLY an exaggeration to say that each bomb fired in Palestine creates a thousand anti-Semites in Britain but it is no exaggeration to say that the Jewish terrorists in the Holy Land are successfully continuing a job which the Nazis began.

Twice in the past few weeks the Evening Standard has run cartoons by Low pointing this fact. A recent cartoon showed a terrorist peering into a mirror in which the reflection was the monster of anti-Semitism. A mental ghetto is being raised against the Jews in Britain today and signs of it are apparent not only in the frequency with which one hears anti-Semitic remarks but also in physical outrages which have lately taken place.

Two attempts have been made recently to burn synagogues. A Jewish store in a west of England city was stoned and in each of these three incidents the perpetrators excused their acts by declaring they were committed in retaliation against the terrorists in Palestine.

THE AUTHORS OF THESE incidents are doubtless cranks of the type who once were Mosley's bully boys in the East end of London. But one also hears anti-Semitic remarks in the streets, on buses and in trains.

At present this anti-Semitism is superficial and snide. A halt to the activities of the terrorists in Palestine would be reflected almost immediately by a drop in the feeling in Britain but the danger is that the fanatic Jew will continue his work and while he may win a home for his fellows in Palestine he may also lose one for his fellow in England.

This correspondent cannot remember the Jew as such in Britain 10 years ago. He was then just another man or woman whose only distinguishing feature was that he went to another form of church and went there on Saturday instead of on Sunday. Now the attempt at segregation appears to be beginning and once it is realized then it will take years to remove.

ANTI-SEMITISM is not the only form of racialism now appearing in Britain. The Pole is another victim. A campaign carefully fostered by the Communist party is now in full swing against the Poles in this country. The Trade Union Congress in Brighton produced the unsavory spectacle of a blanket Communist type denunciation of the Poles. In that gathering of 800 only one voice was raised on the side of these men.

A little more courage on the part of the government might well have won the day for the introduction of Polish labor into British industry. But the courage was not there and the tentative, half-hearted efforts made up to a month or so ago only encouraged opposition which was in large part economic.

Now the effort is being made again and may perhaps be successful, but antipathy towards the Poles has been allowed to grow to the point where they are regarded by a large section of the population as either Fascist or the next best thing to Fascism.

IF THERE WERE ANY DOUBTS as to the origin of the opposition to the Poles the very form the smear campaign has taken would point to the Communist party. No other organization makes so free a use of this type of abuse.

Both forms of racialism are a sad reflection of the strain of war on the British people. Easier times may wash away this feeling.

Study In Contrasts

Strickland pictures the trim, abiding cairn that commemorates an event of distant days when the twisted, fire-blackened stump was a young and living tree.

Crossroads Of The Air

By EWART YOUNG in Atlantic Guardian

EVER SINCE the end of World War II, and officially since April 1, 1946, when Newfoundland formally assumed control, the giant airbase at Gander has been gradually undergoing a face-lifting, to change it from the strictly secret and hastily expanded chief air link between the aircraft arsenals of North America and the battlefields of Europe, into an ultra-modern terminal for civilian aircraft flying the flags of half-a-dozen different countries on the North Atlantic route.

Though far from finished, Gander today is many jumps ahead of what it was, say in Nov. 1938, when planes first began to use its runways, while workmen were still hacking building space out of the forest; or on that historic day, Nov. 10, 1940, when a formation of seven Hudsons took off from the base on the first bomber flight from west to east across the Atlantic; or even in the waning months of the war when British, Canadian, and American forces, working in co-operation, had brought the efficiency and co-ordination of the base to an almost perfect climax.

Gander in its peacetime role embraces a world-wide range of responsibilities and connections, even as in war, but the difference now is that it is a Newfoundland show; and it is to the Island's everlasting credit that the transformation has been effected so smoothly and so well.

EIGHT AIRLINES

The change-over, of course, has been helped along very materially by the airline companies which use Gander as a refuelling base, and there are eight of these at present: Trans-Canada Airlines, Trans-World Airlines, Pan American World Airways, American Overseas Airlines, Scandinavian Airlines System, British Overseas Airways Corporation, Air France, and K.L.M.—Royal Dutch Airlines. Needing space for offices and living quarters, catering facilities for their passengers, and a share in the general amenities of the base, these airlines collectively represent substantial and continuing business for the operators of Gander and for Newfoundland in general. Close co-operation exists between the airlines themselves and between the airlines and the Newfoundland Government, which runs Gander and this is evidenced by the joint use of the new terminal building, which opened last fall and which is as smart as any air-terminal anywhere.

Another factor in the transformation was the existing buildings which had been put up by Canada at a reputed cost of $25,000,000, during the war. These buildings as they stood were sold to Newfoundland for $1,000,000 and are now being fixed up and altered to suit the needs of the base. Needless to say, there is a scramble for apartments with airline staff and government employees vieing with each other to find suitable quarters.

Quite a town is springing up around Gander, and already there are schools and churches, or at least buildings fitted up as churches. As trans-Atlantic air traffic develops Gander will expand and may in a few years become quite a city—, and a cosmopolitan one at that for, thanks to Gander's ideal location on the great circle route, the world will beat a path to Newfoundland's great airport.

Edison--So Nearly a Canadian

THOMAS ALVA EDISON, world-famous inventor whose 100th birthday anniversary will be observed internationally on February 11, 1947, missed being a Canadian only because his father chose to side with the forces of William Lyon MacKenzie in the ill-fated Papineau Rebellion and was forced to flee to the United States for safety.

The inventor's father, Samuel Edison, Jr., fled the village of Vienna in Bayham Township, Ontario Province, in 1838 after MacKenzie's attempt to seize the government failed. A year later he settled in Milan, Ohio, where Thomas Alva was born in 1847. Two of Tom's brother's Marion and William Pitt Edison, and a sister, Harriett Ann, were born in Vienna.

Pioneers migrating westward from Nova Scotia founded Vienna village in 1811, and among them were Tom Edison's great grandfather, grandfather, and father, the latter a youth at the time. The great grandfather, John Edison, had been one of the original settlers of Digby, Nova Scotia, to where he and his family had migrated from New Jersey at the close of the Revolutionary War. During the war, he was a Tory and loyal to the Crown, and as such had been ordered hanged for giving aid to British troops. His sentence, however, was commuted to banishment from the United States.

WORKED IN CANADA

Tom's ancestral ties with Canada were to be augmented later when, as a youth, he worked in Canada as a telegraph operator at Sarnia, across the Detroit River from Port Huron, Michigan, and at Stratford Junction in Ontario Province.

Some of Edison's most interesting childhood experiences occurred when he worked as a newsboy and candy butcher on the Grand Trunk Railroad train running between Detroit and Port Huron. His family moved to Port Huron when he was seven and continued to reside there until Tom was grown.

It was as an ordinary boy brimming with normal deviltry, not as the soon-to-be inventor of such miraculous things as the electric light, the phonograph, and the motion picture, that young Tom received his first black eye in Sarnia in 1860. The then Prince of Wales, known as Lord Renfrew, was to stop off at Sarnia during a tour of Canada, and Edison was among a group of Port Huron lads who crossed the river to ogle the visiting royalty. In a dispute over the Prince, the Canadians whipped the Yankees and Tom received a blackened orb as a memento of the occasion.

Paradise---Until The Floods

By NORMAN CRIBBENS, C.P. Staff Writer From London

EX-SERGEANT Alfred Meek and his newly-wed wife wanted to live somewhere "different." So they went to live on an island in the Thames.

They chose Trowlock, a small sausage-shaped island near Kingston Bridge, because Meek had a boat moored there and Trowlock is a paradise for boaters in summer. They rented a small white-painted, timbered bungalow overlooking a fast-flowing backwater and moved in—cat, canary and all.

Only 20 feet of water divide the island from the mainland and Meek crossed it daily in a dinghy on his way to work. It was lovely till the floods came.

One morning, the dinghy was carried out of control by the torrent and overturned. Meek swam home shivering while the boat vanished.

HE BRIDGED the water with two punts tied end to end. But there were other troubles to contend with. The one drinking water tap on the island froze up. The river overflowed the bank, submerging the garden and wetting the Meek's dining-room carpet. Rats outmanoeuvred Whisky, the cat, and chewed the curtains and the tablecloths. Pipes funnelling river water into the house for washing and cleaning froze and burst.

Yet the Meeks, both in their 20s, have no intention of quitting their island home.

"We regard difficulties as a challenge," said Alfred, a burly six-footer, formerly with the Grenadier Guards. "We said we were going to do something different and we have. If there are further troubles we shall meet them."

The few bungalows on Trowlock Island—once visited by Charles Dickens in a friend's sailing yacht—have gas lighting and heating. There is no electricity and open fires of any kind are banned by the small limited company owning the property.

ONE FAMILY has lived on Trowlock for 21 years. They say that summer brings many compensations for winter hardships. Trowlock Islanders do not lock their doors and in 15 years there has been only one burglary—a boy swam across from the mainland and raided a toolshed. When Teddington Lock, one mile down the river, was bombed in 1942 Trowlock ceased to be an island. It was left high and dry by rapidly receding waters and the islanders walked along the river bed picking up long-submerged valuables, one of them a diamond bracelet.

SUPERSTITION KILLS QUINTS

Ottawa Evening Citizen

Like Canada, India has had quintuplets. They were the children of a poor Brahmin in northern India and their story is a tragedy of a religious tabu. A young Indian woman doctor delivered the five boy babies single-handed. They were all healthy but they died from neglect. The doctor sent out frantic appeals for help but although the Indian women came to look, none would help, believing in the superstition that twins are "unlucky" and quadruplets or quintuplets the work of evil spirits.

CLIPPED at RANDOM

SWEEPSTAKES

Maisie Devitt in Powell River News

I wonder why it is that whenever anybody comes up with a worthwhile suggestion that would benefit a lot of people, a few narrow-minded reformers get up on their hind legs and raise a holler, and it is allowed to fall through. For instance, sweepstakes for hospitals have been mooted time and again. If a plebiscite was taken on the question their isn't much doubt that it would pass, and couldn't we use a few modern hospitals?

PET PHOBIA

The Times of London

Some people, perhaps most people have a favorite phobia. Because it is often adopted at an early age, and thus derives from the mythology of the nursery or the literature of the schoolroom, the thing feared is often of an exotic and sometimes of an out-of-date kind, so that in practice our fear of it, though real enough, is somewhat academic.

GETTING WORSE

Edmonton Bulletin

Palestine is becoming another name for anarchy. Neither the British, holding mandatory authority, nor the Arabs nor the Jews are now in actual control of the situation. Washington agreed months ago to take a hand in helping to settle the trouble, but hasn't done anything about it.

LET'S BE MODERN

Ottawa Evening Citizen

We take this opportunity to enter a plea for the use of modern lettering on all memorials or public buildings. In bygone centuries, the Roman "V" was completely modern for the simple reason that "U" as an inscriptional letter did not exist. But monuments, whether they endure centuries or not, become ancient fast enough. Surely the ones we erect today should reflect our times and customs and not those of several centuries before us.

WALTER THOMPSON

Halifax Herald

There is a place for Walter Thompson in Canadian life. He has made it partly. There should be, but never will be, a great many like him, men who let the record speak for itself, provide the service, and profit by the consequences. In Thompson's case these have been invariably profitable for his employers, the public owners of the C.N.R.

DIPLOMATS

Ottawa Journal

The Associated Press, sometimes pretty staid and stodgy itself, has been having fun with a code of etiquette which the British Foreign Office has put out for British diplomats. Reading the A.P.'s piece, one might get the impression that diplomats were people whose chief qualification must be that they knew how to wear striped pants and a custaway, and always how to balance a teacup and lettuce sandwich while whispering sweet nothings into the ear of a duchess.

All of which is more fancy than fact, and a diplomatist in our time, must be a hard-boiled, hard-working salesman for his country as well as a gentleman, with striped pants and gardenias an insignificant part of his equipment.

'To The Fallen'

Australian News

Five years ago on Jan. 15, 1942, gunners of the 2-15 Australian Imperial Force field regiment's A troop, stood ready at Gemas, Malaya, to meet the oncoming Japanese. The troop was 100 strong, including reinforcements.

As the Japanese made their expected assault through the jungle and the young rubber trees, the troop opened fire, cut down the attachers' first wave. The Japs discontinued that attack, made a wide outflanking move instead and struck again on another front. Weeks later, on beseiged Singapore Island, the troop went into action again, as the Japanese swarmed across Johore Straits from the Malayan mainland. After the capitulation, the troop, 80 strong—20 by then had been killed in action—marched into prison camps.

In the prison camps, the troop was split. Some men went to Siam to build the jungle railway; some went to Borneo to build airfields, and took part in the Sandakan "death march"; some went to Japan to work in the copper and iron mines.

Last week, survivors of the troop came to Sydney, from southern, western and northern New South Wales. Only 25 were left to give the toast, "Fallen Comrades".

Transport Committee To Meet Citizens

The transportation committee will hold a meeting within the next month to which interested groups and individual citizens who have suggestions to offer for the new unified transportation franchise will be invited. Ald. H. M. Diggon, committee, chairman, said today.

Several neighborhood groups have made complaints about the proposed routing suggested in the original franchise which was turned down last December, and other details of the franchise, he said, and it has been considered advisable to give them an opportunity to present their views to the committee.

He said that all such suggestions made will be carefully checked and where feasible be included in the new franchise.

Building permits have been issued to the Pacific Sheet Metal Co. to build a $1,000 loading platform at 1009 Yates Street; and to A. P. Bartlett to build a 4-room house at 116 Maddock Street, costing $5,000.

H. W. Davey, K.C., Guest Speaker At Real Estate Board

Agreements to purchase property were sometimes prepared in such a slipshod manner by real estate agents that on some occasions homes have been built on the wrong lot, H. W. Davey, K.C., barrister, told the members of the Real Estate Board of Victoria at a meeting in the Empress Hotel Wednesday.

Mr. Davey addressed the board on the "Agreement to Purchase," one of the most important documents real estate agents have to deal with in their business. He explained sundry aspects of the agreement, and the importance of having the document fully completed to avoid trouble at a later date.

Laxity in preparing an agreement in some cases was inexcusable, he said, advising real estate agents that an agreement fully and correctly completed was a protection for themselves and the public.

He pointed out that an agreement signed on Sunday was void.

He said in preparing an agreement real estate agents should make sure the party was named, property described and price stated.

He warned unless this was done there was a loophole for purchasers to slide out from agreement and a danger of agents losing their commissions.

Power Costs $22,506 For Street Lights

The city's street lighting system was operated during 1945 at a power cost of $22,506 according to the annual report of the electrical superintendent, Kenneth Reid, submitted to Ald. F. G. Mulliner, chairman of the street lighting committee today.

In the city there are now 2,294 street lighting units, he reported, 1,207 residential units, 1,032 cluster standards, 22 ornamental standards on Dallas Road, 13 on Ross Bay sea wall, eight on the Causeway wall, five illuminated clocks and seven mercury vapor units.

Work on the improvement of the street lighting system, for which $108,000 was voted last year, has been seriously delayed because of material shortages.

Of the Blanshard Street development between Pandora Avenue and Pembroke Street, Mr. Reid said work had developed as far as possible but has been delayed by lack of materials. All the steel standards, 17 in number, the necessary subway transformers and some of the underground cable has yet to be delivered, but he hoped the project will be completed in 1947, making the street one of the best lighted in the city.

Author Agnes Newton Keith Tells Horrors Of Prison Camp

"I am talking to you, not as a war hero or a martyr, but just as a woman with a background of three-and-one-half years spent in Japanese prison camps," Mrs. Agnes Newton Keith, author of "Land Below the Wind," told members and visitors at the University Women's Club meeting Wednesday.

A softly-spoken, friendly woman, she outlined three years of suffering, miserable conditions and utter despair, which touched the hearts of her listeners.

Mrs. Keith and her husband were in Borneo when Pearl Harbor was attacked. "We knew that the Japanese would come, as they had their eyes on Borneo oil, but I wanted to stay and face it with my husband," she said.

It was six months later, that their son, George, was born.

"We had been warned by officials that we could expect no protection from the armed forces. Our part was to remain and destroy resources. We burned and destroyed industrial machinery, boats, oil and surplus food. Then we waited for the Japanese. They came. They called our resistance, 'acts of war' and the men were jailed and threatened with execution while women were put under protective custody."

Mrs. Keith and her son, George, with 47 women and 15 children were taken to a prison camp on a tiny island where the government leper colony was established. After months spent under horrible conditions, where they were completely at the mercy of the guards, the women and children were herded on a small steamer to spend 10 days and nights crowded on the open deck, without room to lie down.

"I would sooner die than go through it again. The atrocities, hatred, utter despair.

"As I look back, the hardest of all to bear, is the feeling of waste of time. The only good those years can bring, is to tell others of the despair of body and soul that war brings.

"Through the memory of hunger behind me, I know that while one part of the world has plenty and the other has none, there will never be peace," Mrs. Keith said.

Mrs. Keith's new book, "Three Who Came Back," will be published in April.

Mrs. A. J. Tullis, a club member who recently returned from a trip to eastern states, outlined the beginning and progress of International Houses in the States and told members of the International Student Centre in Geneva.

Mrs. J. W. L. Price, president, was in the chair.

Mrs. H. C. McColl Again Heads W.M.S.

Mrs. H. C. McColl was re-elected president of the Metropolitan United Church Women's Missionary Society at the annual meeting held recently.

Other officers are as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. A. E. Whitehouse; first vice-president, Mrs. E. R. Bewell; second vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Muncy; third vice-president, Mrs. H. E. Thomson; fourth vice-president, Mrs. W. E. Harper; recording secretary, Mrs. Albert Sullivan; treasurer, Miss Elsie Hartte; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. A. Scott; Christian stewardship, Mrs. J. R. Standen; community friendship, Mrs. C. F. Wharton; associate members, Miss Grace Baker; supply secretary, Mrs. W. I. Cullum; temperance, Mrs. J. H. Carefoot; literature, Mrs. C. H. Bacon; press, Mrs. F. H. Herbert; missionary monthly, Mrs. W. J. Smith; roll-call, Mrs. J. E. Runions; pianist, Mrs. W. H. Muncy; mite boxes, Mrs. J. T. Taylor; social, Mrs. V. E. Sweetland; study group, Mrs. H. O. English.

Rev. A. E. Whitehouse installed officers and brought a message of encouragement, commending the women on the year's work and giving them a challenge for the coming year.

Mrs. McColl presided and Mrs. D. A. Girvin, president of the presbyterial society, gave the devotional message.

Reports of all committees showed a successful year.

Filled Cookie Jar—For Winter Revelry

When the crowd gathers 'round your hearth fire this winter, you'll be a popular hostess if you have a steaming cup of hot chocolate and a crisp cookie or two for your guests.

A filled cookie jar is always a boon to the pantry—but especially so in winter time. The young fry spend more time entertaining at home—neighbors drop in for a chat or a game of bridge to pass the long cold evenings—and even when just the family's at home, someone's always getting hungry for a tasty sweet.

You can turn out a host of cookies in a hurry when you cater to the wafer type—and refrigerator cookies are a particular joy—for you can make up part of the batch and store the leftover dough in the refrigerator to bake fresh when the cookie jar is about half empty!

MOLASSES WAFERS

½ cup molasses, ¼ cup shortening, ½ cup cereal bran, 1¼ cups sifted flour, ¾ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind.

Put molasses and shortening in saucepan and heat to boiling point. Remove from fire; add cereal bran. Cool. Sift together flour, soda and ginger. Add to molasses mixture with orange rind. Chill dough thoroughly. Roll out on lightly floured board to ⅛-inch thickness. Cut with round cookie cutter. Bake on greased baking sheets in moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) about eight minutes.

Yield: Three dozen wafers (two inches in diameter.

ORANGE REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

½ cup shortening, ½ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, ½ cup cereal bran, 1¾ cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup milk.

Blend shortening and sugar; add orange rind. Crush bran into fine crumbs. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together; mix with bran. Add to first mixture alternately with milk; mix well. Shape dough into rolls about 1½ inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper and chill until firm. Slice thin and bake on ungreased baking sheets in moderately hot oven (475 degrees Fahrenheit) about 10 minutes.

Yield: Four dozen cookies (1½ inches in diameter).

Red Cross Notes

Oak Bay—The Oak Bay Unit committee of the Red Cross Society met on Tuesday, and made arrangements to hold their annual general meeting on Feb. 5 at 2.30 in the Municipal Hall. Mrs. Curtis, convener, reported that while there was now plenty of materials available and many garments needed there was a great shortage of sewers. Preliminary arrangements were made in connection with canvassing for the campaign to be held in March. Working parties are convened in the Municipal Hall mornings and afternoons except on Fridays and Saturdays.

Oak Bay Enjoys Good Health Year

Figures summarizing all cases of infectious and contagious diseases showed a highly satisfactory state had prevailed in Oak Bay during 1946, Dr. W. P. Walker, medical health officer, reported to Oak Bay Council Wednesday evening.

Of the total number of 113 cases, 25 were due to contagious disease, and 80 had to be regarded as the inevitable infectious diseases of childhood, as at the present time the latter could scarcely be regarded as preventable, Dr. Walker said. Of the other eight cases, he added, five occurred in adults.

Summary of cases showed the following: Chickenpox, 32; mumps, 41; rubella, five; morbilli, two; scarlet fever, three; erysipelas, two; salmonellosis, two; meningitis, one; impetigo, 10; ringworm, 10 and scabies, five.

Vaccinations totaled 2,075; immunizations, 454; visits and examinations, 84, and complaints, five.

Dr. Walker warned so low an incidence of infectious disease could not always be expected. Chickenpox, mumps and measles would continue to run in cycles until they became preventable, he said, and the indications were that measles would soon become more prevalent.

Goldenbergs To Leave Victoria On Feb. 1.

H. Carl Goldenberg of Montreal, sole Royal Commissioner in the probe of provincial-municipal financial relations for the B.C. government, and Mrs. Goldenberg plan to leave Victoria for San Francisco Feb. 1.

Mr. Goldenberg, who is cleaning up his duties at the Parliament Buildings following presentation of his report to Premier John Hart, plans to holiday in San Francisco with his wife before returning to Montreal. During his trip east he will stop over in Winnipeg to attend a meeting of a company of which he is a director.

The Goldenbergs have been resident in Victoria, except for a short time last summer, since last February.

$6,000 Theft In Luggage Of Ship Diverted To City

Detective Inspector Henry Jarvis reported yesterday that no report had been received by local police of the theft of furs and jewelry valued at approximately $6,000 from a woman's luggage aboard a vessel which called at Victoria last year.

A mink coat, valued at $3,000; an ermine cape, valued at $1,500 and a necklace set with diamonds were stolen from the luggage of Mrs. Lloyd-Jones, Auckland, New Zealand, aboard the vessel Flyway, a Canadian Press dispatch from Auckland said. The ship was bound for the United States, but was diverted to Victoria. The luggage was not delivered until recently owing to strikes when discovery of the theft was made.

Hearing Opens Feb. 4

Start of the preliminary hearing of Chow Dong Gin, a Chinese charged with theft of $24,000 from Peter Rapanos, Olympia Cafe, was set for Feb. 4, by Magistrate Henry C. Hall in city police court Wednesday.

Magistrate Hall had earlier placed bail for accused at $5,000, but on application by J. McKenna, defence lawyer, for a lower bail, the magistrate reconsidered and set the bail at $3,000.

164 Oak Bay Fires

A total of 164 fires in Oak Bay during 1946 accounted for fire loss amounting to $3,716, Fire Chief E. G. Clayards said in his annual report to Oak Bay council Wednesday evening.

In a summary of fires over the 1938-1946 period, the fire chief reported a total of 1,616 fires accounting for fire losses of $134,720. The yearly average for the nine years was 180 alarms, and fire loss averaged $14,969. Property risk for 1946 amounted to $740,780, and insurance of property involved in that year amounted to $637,300.

Building activity throughout the municipality called for additional fire hydrants, the fire chief said.

He also reported to the council the National Fire Protection had advised that the Oak Bay fire department had been awarded first place in 1946 for Class C cities of 10,000 to 25,000 population in B.C. in the Record of Merit for educational activities promoted during Fire Prevention Week.

Urges Saanich To Seek More Tourists

After stressing that Saanich Peninsula has many of the finest scenic drives in the whole of Canada, George T. Warren, Victoria and Island Publicity Commission, urged in an address before the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday night that a greater effort be made to attract more and longer-staying tourists.

"Saanich Peninsula has a great deal to offer tourists, but residents and businessmen of the area can do much more to attract them," he said. Mr. Warren listed Butchart's Gardens, the Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain, a splendid view of the Gulf Islands and the Patricia Bay airport among the attractions the peninsula had to offer the traveling public.

Granted Immunity

Necessary clauses to provide immunity to the members of Oak Bay Council in so far as the possible liability in payment of $8,800 in excess of 1946 school appropriations to the Greater Victoria School Board were being prepared, G. M. Weir, B.C. Minister of Education, advised Oak Bay Council Wednesday evening.

Seek Provincial Cage Honors

Eagles, classy intermediate A basketball team, who will represent Victoria in the forthcoming provincial playdowns. Eagles played in the senior B league during the regular season, due to the fact that they were the only entry in their division, and chalked up an imposing record of eight wins and two losses against the senior clubs. Reading from left to right: Fred Tooby, manager; Cranston Browning, Steve Rynoski, Red McMillan, Bob Long, Jim Ranson, Gordon Ellis, Howard Tooby, Jim Ireland and Gar Taylor, coach.

Canada Enters 1947 Davis Cup Play

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada has filed its entry for the 1947 Davis Cup matches, president C. W. Leslie of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association announced today.

Leslie said a mail vote among C.L.T.A. council members was "overwhelmingly" in favor of entering a Canadian team and as a result Canada's entry was wired to the cup competition committee of management in the United States. Closing date for entries is Jan. 31.

As in previous years, Canada will compete in the North American zone.

Canada entered the competition last year, when the games were resumed after the wartime lapse, and in the first round draw, played in Montreal, dropped all five matches to the Mexican team.

Organization work for the 1947 matches likely will begin shortly after the C.L.T.A.'s annual meeting, which president Leslie said today will be held in Montreal, Feb. 22.

Rangers Challenge For Third Position

In the diary of Montreal Canadiens and the personal journal of Maurice Richard, ace right-winger of the National Hockey League club, there should be whole chapters dedicated to Boston Bruins under the general heading: "Dear Cousins."

The Habitants continued to wax fat at the expense of the Bruins with a 4 to 3 triumph last night—sixth straight over the Bostonians since a 1 to 1 draw in their opening clash of the season. The victory put Canadiens six points behind the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs, idle until Saturday.

Richard padded his individual sharp-shooting record in sparking the triumph with a pair of goals. They were the 27th and 28th of the season for Richard, only N.H.L. performer conceded half a chance of cracking big Nels Stewart's durable all-time record of 323 league tallies.

Besides having their budding victory streak cut short at three straight, the Bruins found their grip on third position threatened when the fourth-place New York Rangers whipped Chicago Black Hawks, 4 to 2, in the night's other clash.

RANGERS PRESS

The victory, before a crowd of 16,102 at Chicago, lifted Rangers within one point of the Bruins while burying Chicago deeper in the cellar. The fluttering Hawks get another chanee tonight when they meet the fifth-place Red Wings at Detroit in the only game scheduled.

The fiery Richard, playing his fourth full N.H.L. season, boosted his big-time goal total to 142 with counters in the first and last periods at Boston. At that clip, and if he should last long enough, the black-haired French-Canadien could pass the goal-sniping of Stewart, the "ole poison" of the erstwhile Montreal Maroons who took 15 years to become the only N.H.L. player to pass the 300-goal mark.

Dick Metz Barred From Two Open Tourneys For Hitting Corcoran

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Officials of the Professional Golfers Association announced today that Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kas., has been suspended from competing in the next two P.G.A.-sponsored golf tournaments.

The disciplinary action came as the aftermath of an incident at Carmel, Calif., two weeks ago in which, it was charged, Metz struck Fred J. Corcoran, P.G.A. tournament bureau manager.

The suspension was voted by a newly-formed P.G.A. tournament players' committee headed by George Schneiter of Ogden, Utah. The committee found Metz guilty of violating P.G.A.'s code of ethics for "Conduct likely to injure the reputation and standing of the association or any of its members."

Other members of the committee include United States open champion Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, P.G.A. champion Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Tex., Jimmy Thompson of Chicopee, Mass., and Ellsworth Vines, Los Angeles.

Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., the seventh member, is in the east.

The two tournaments which Metz may not enter are the $10,000 Phoenix Open which starts Friday and the $10,000 Tuscon, Ariz., Open the following week.

Metz, who followed the parade of money players here, was not available for comment immediately.

Corcoran declared after the incident that Metz had assaulted him without provocation outside a Carmel, Calif., restaurant.

The P.G.A. official suffered one cracked and two chipped teeth and a cut on his upper lip. He and Metz had been in disagreement over P.G.A. policies and other matters for some time.

Corcoran said later it was a "closed incident," that he held no grudge against Metz and that he planned no action against him.

Vancouver Hornets In Thrill-Packed Victory

LEAGUE STANDINGS

| | Won | Lost | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Portland | 18 | 7 | .720 |
| Vancouver | 14 | 7 | .667 |
| Bellingham | 15 | 8 | .652 |
| Seattle | 10 | 12 | .455 |
| Salem | 8 | 16 | .333 |
| Yakima | 5 | 15 | .250 |
| Spokane | 1 | 6 | .142 |

Games last night:
Bellingham 51, Portland 48.
Vancouver 61, Seattle 60.
Salem 50, Yakima 35.

The "play-for-pay" cage league leaders relaxed today and turned activity over to Seattle and Spokane after a hectic half-week which saw the margin separating the first three teams cut from four to two games.

Seattle entertains Spokane tonight in the only scheduled encounter.

Bellingham handed the leading Portland Indians their second straight defeat last night by a 51 to 48 margin before a crowd of 2,400 customers. John Mandic topped scoring with 20 for the losers while Gale Bishop led Bellingham with 17. Both players were benched via the foul route.

PROTEST WIN

Keeping pace with the Bellingham five, Vancouver staged a fourth-quarter rally to win a disputed 61 to 60 verdict over Seattle. Gerry Hartnett, owner of the Seattle five, said the game would be protested on grounds that one of the baskets was scored illegally. He asserted Porky Andrews, who potted 19 for Vancouver, had stepped out of bounds while in possession of the ball, left the ball in play and then returned to the playing surface to resume play before any other player touched the ball.

Salem defeated Yakima, 50 to 35, with an 11-point splurge in the final three minutes while holding the Ramblers scoreless. Bill Osterhous, lanky Salem centre, captured scoring honors with 15. A slim crowd of 150 persons witnessed the encounter.

Although Norm Baker led Vancouver snipers with 20 points, it was spare Reggie Clarkson who provided the Vancouver team with their margin of victory. He scooped a rebound off the floor in front of the Seattle basket and in the same move jumped and dropped the ball through the hoop to give Hornets the lead with 20 seconds to go. Devil's Wally Leask missed a splendid opportunity to tie the game up in the last 10 seconds when he missed the second of two shots that were awarded to him.

Teams and scores follow:

Seattle—Maull 14, Sigurdson 15, Parsons 10, Leask 9, Glavin, Katica 1, Logg, Watson 4, Dalthorp 5, Chase 2.

Vancouver—Andrews 19, Peden 4, Nichol 4, Baker 20, Chapman 9, Clarkson 5, Sykes, Lawn.

Germany, Japan Out Of Olympic Games

LONDON (AP) — The organizing committee for the 11th Olympiad closed the door to Germany and Japan today with an announcement that the two countries "would not be invited to compete."

Invitations for the Olympics, scheduled for London from July 29 to Aug. 14, 1948, will be mailed soon. Other former enemy countries, including Italy, are expected to be invited.

New Westminster Rallies To Beat Seattle Ironmen

Undiscouraged by a heart-breaking loss to Vancouver Canucks the previous night, New Westminster Royals surged back to a second-place tie with Seattle Ironmen in the northern division by defeating the Ironmen 4 to 3 in a Coast Hockey League game last night.

Trailing 3 to 2 at the end of the second stanza, two last-period goals by Reg Bentley of Delisle, Sask., gave Royals their triumph.

Royals and Ironmen now are nine points behind the northern division leaders, Portland Eagles, who ran aground on their southern division tour bowing 3 to 1 to San Francisco Shamrocks.

The front-running Hollywood Wolves of the southern division ran up against their old nemesis, San Diego Skyhawks, and wilted 3 to 1 before the Skyhawks attack, for their fifth straight loss to San Diego.

Hall Of Fame For Fighters Planned; Zale Gets Trophy

NEW YORK (AP)—Survivors of the New York boxing writers' annual eating and drinking derby were buzzing today with talk of a hall of fame for the sport and a campaign to curb punch-drunkenness.

Actually, last night's party in Rupert's Brewery was put on to present the Edward J. Neil Memorial award to middleweight champion Tony Zale as the man who did the most for boxing in 1946.

Former postmaster general James A. Farley, a one-time New York boxing commissioner, made the presentation.

In addition, the Gary, Ind., steel-mill puddler also took home the Ring Magazine's award as 1946's "fighter of the year," promoter Mike Jacobs, now recovering from a cerebral hemorrhage, won the boxing writers" trophy for "long and meritorious service" to the sport, and the Damon Runyon cancer fund was given part of the dinner's proceeds.

Abe J. Greene, president of the N.B.A., came up with the suggestion for the hall of fame—something along the lines of the baseball shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Babe Ruth Fair

NEW YORK (AP) — Babe Ruth's condition was reported by French Hospital attaches as "fair" early today.

The condition of the former home-run king, who underwent a neck operation Jan. 6, had been carried on hospital reports as "good" for the early part of the week. The hospital did not explain the change to "fair," although authorities said there was no cause for alarm.

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

BACK from Vancouver, where he was elected president of the West Coast Horsemen's Association at a meeting this week, Ken Darbyshire, well-known Victoria breeder and trainer, today came up with a lot of answers to the objections raised by those interests anxious to bring an end to racing at the Willows track. "We, as horsemen, believe that racing is a legalized business and should enjoy all the rights and privileges extended to any other business of a legal nature," Darbyshire said. "Racing should be given every protection. If racing is illegal let us know now and we will quit the business."

IN answer to those critics of racing who point to the undesirable characters associated with the sport, Darbyshire pointed out that any line of business, regardless of its nature, attracts undesirables. "Why should anyone pick on horse racing to point the finger of suspicion?", he said. "Also it has been determined in the highest courts of law that wagering on horse racing is not determined by chance and cannot be considered a lottery. It is an established fact that the position where a horse finishes in a race is determined by the speed and stamina of the animal plus the skill of the jockey and the weight carried."

DARBYSHIRE went on to point out that it was absolutely impossible for the horsemen to race at the Willows next fall under the existing B.C. laws governing the sport, which call for seven days and then an interval of not less than 30 days before another week's racing. "Should the present B.C. racing act not be amended, Victorians can say goodbye to racing on the lower island," he said.

IN reply to a query regarding the plans for a new track on the site of the old Colwood strip Darbyshire disclosed that the property purchased by S. W. Randall of the Vancouver Thoroughbred Association, and now the owner of the Willows, still remains under the control of the Federal Government. "It was thought that the government's lease on the property would not be renewed after the end of the war but from all indications this land will remain in the hands of the Department of National Defence owing to its proximity to the naval base."

DARBYSHIRE, who succeeded George Irvine of Vancouver as head of the horsemen, is a chap who is going to do racing in this province a lot of good. Associated with the sport both from the standpoint of a breeder and the operator of the largest public racing stable in B.C., he has everybody's interests at heart. Racing is his whole life and you can rest assured he will give of his time and energy to do everything to place the sport on the highest possible plane. In addition, Darbyshire holds the confidence of the general public and after all, it is the man who wagers his $2 who makes racing possible.

Legion Edge Vets To Force Cage Playoff

Army, Navy and Air Force Vets lost a glorious opportunity to knock K.V.'s out of playoff contention in the Senior A league at the High School last night when they dropped a 44 to 43 decision to Canadian Legion, in the feature game of the triple bill.

MacDonalds defeated Bruisers 48 to 46 in a sudden-death overtime game for the right to meet Navy for the final playoff spot in the senior B league. Gar Taylor's Tillicums took a one-game lead in their best-of-three intermediate B semi-final series by downing Chinese Students 39 to 29 in the preliminary match.

The senior A game was one of the closest of the season with neither side able to build up any substantial lead. Vets led 14 to 11 at the end of the first quarter, but Legionnaires overcame this [illegible] in the second period and were on top 21 to 26 at the half.

Vets and Legion matched basket for basket and free shot for free shot in the final 20 minutes, with first one team taking the lead and then the other. Vets went ahead by three points about two minutes from time but Vic Dale potted a long two hander and Goldsmith a free shot to tie it up. Junior Fox, elongated centre then came through with the all-important free shot that decided the game in favor of the Legion.

An interested spectator at the game and pulling for the Legion for probabaly the first time this year was Harold Turner, coach of K.V.'s, whose team faced elimination if the Legion lost. Vets and K.V.'s will meet in a play-off for third place.

TAYLOR STARS

Gar Taylor, who only signed with Macdonald's a few weeks ago was the star of the senior B game. Taylor led the scorers with 13 points and potted what proved to be the winning basket in the last minute of the overtime tussle.

Bruisers fought hard in dropping out of the senior B title race and at one stage of the game seemed to have victory in their grasp. With less than a minute to go and leading by two points, Bruisers lost possession and Louis McCorkall sneaked away and tied the count at 40 to 40.

Again in the overtime Bruisers moved into the lead but the fight that has characterized MacDonald's play of late came to the fore and two quick hoops by McCorkall and one by Taylor decided the issue.

Taller and heavier than their opponents, Tillicums had little trouble in taking the intermediate B semifinal from the Chinese Students. Matthews with 16 points led the scoring parade for the winners.

Herring Catch Tops 100,000-Ton Mark

British Columbia's 1946-47 herring catch, setting a four-year record, has passed the 100,000-ton mark, the director of western fisheries reported today.

The 100,000-ton total catch was passed some time last week. At the week-end the total catch for the season stood at 104,780 tons.

Held down to a 25,000-ton quota which had not been taken for many years, the west coast herring district now has produced 52,771 tons, more than the district off the lower east coast of Vancouver Island, long considered the most productive in the province. The quota for the lower east coast has been held at 40,000 tons for several years.

Biological experts of the federal fisheries department had predicted a good run of herring this season for the west coast areas. For an experiment to determine the extent to which this fishery may be exploited without endangering future fishing, the quota has been entirely removed for the west coast area.

The herring pack for the current season at last week-end had reached 1,415,285 cases, bulk of which may go to Unrra. Last year at the same time 1,244,624 cases had been packed.

Other herring operations have produced 4,309 tons of dry salted herring, 67 tons of brine cured herring, 4,983 tons of herring meal, 433,387 gallons of herring oil, 2,745 tons of herring offal meal and 388,813 gallons of herring offal oil.

Aid-To-China Fund Seeks $250,000

Nothing is so pitiful as a child whose world has fallen to pieces. A hungry child, a cold child, a child whose parents are gone, wakens a warm, protective feeling in older people; a feeling that they want to feed and warm and cherish the poor little waif.

There are thousands of such pathetic children in China who can be helped by a donation to the Canadian Aid to China Fund. The fund is appealing this month for $2,500,000 which will be used largely to feed and clothe orphan children, to educate them and to teach them a trade.

British Columbia's quota is $250,000. Contributions may be made at local banks, or through the local committee, or may be sent direct to provincial headquarters, 736 Granville Street, Vancouver.

Will Sell Indian Reserve Property

VANCOUVER (CP)—R. Rowe Holland, head of the Vancouver Parks Board, announced Wednesday that the Federal government will sell 40 acres of the Kitsilano Indian Reserve to Vancouver for $400,000. The parks board decided to ask City Council to make the purchase provided payments could be made in 10 interest-free installments over a period of 10 years. Another condition was that the R.C.A.F., which has been paying a yearly rent of $5,000, would vacate within three years from the time war ended under terms laid down by City Council.

Child Gives Alarm

OTTAWA (CP)—Fire of unknown origin early today destroyed a three-story apartment block, causing damage estimated at $30,000 and driving 34 persons to the street in sub-zero weather. There were no injuries. Crying of a three-week-old child gave the alarm.

Possibility Seen India A Republic Before Year's End

LONDON (CP)—Authoritative Indian circles in London today foresaw the possibility that India will be established on a Republican basis this year in line with the resolution passed Wednesday by the India constituent assembly in New Delhi.

The forecast was based on this resolution, proposed six weeks ago by Jawaharlal Nehru, proclaiming unanimous determination to establish an "independent sovereign Republic of India."

The assembly is just at the beginning of the task of drafting a constitution for India and the resolution indicates the pattern to which it will be cut, these sources said. But there may be delays and modifications, they added.

Once drafted, the final constitution will have to be submitted to the British parliament for approval since India is governed by the India Act of 1935, a British measure which will have to be replaced.

Observer's Editor J. L. Garvin, Dies

BEACONSFIELD, BUCKS, Eng. (Reuter)—J. L. Garvin, 79, prominent British newspaperman who edited the Observer, leading London Sunday newspaper, for 35 years, died today.

After leaving the Observer in 1942, Garvin contributed to Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express.

For many years Garvin was one of Britain's foremost political journalists, his articles exercising wide influence. When he left the Observer the newspaper said in a parting tribute that he had been "its life and soul and mind through many profoundly eventful years."

Dutchman Sentenced

IN MEMORIAM

CRAWFORD—In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, who passed away Jan. 23, 1946, at home.

God saw the road was getting rough
And the hills were hard to climb,
So He closed your weary eyelids
And whispered "rest be thine."

—Sadly missed by his wife and family.

SCHOFIELD—In loving memory of Mrs. E. W. Schofield, who passed away Jan. 23, 1941.

Dear Mother:
Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile,
A loving heart that knew no guile,
Deep trust in God that all was right,
Her joy to make some other bright,
If sick or suffering one she knew,
Some gentle act of love she'd do.
No thought of self, but of "the other";
I know. He said: Well done, dear mother.

—Ever remembered by her loving husband, sons, daughters and grandchildren.

Richard Bolsters Ice Scoring Lead
Maurice Richard stretched his lead at the top of the National Hockey League scoring parade to eight points last night when he connected for two goals—his second double in Montreal's last two games—to raise his goal total to 28, which combined with 17 assists gave the fleet winger 45 points.

Although idle last night, Ted Kennedy of Toronto and Detroit's Billy Taylor retained the second and third spots with 37 and 36 points, respectively. Only newcomer of the select circle was Doug Bentley of Chicago who added a goal and an assist to move into a tie with Detroit's Sid Abel for the seventh slot.

Film Motivated By Chocolate Cake

Chocolate cake assumes such importance in the script of Republic's "Rendezvous With Annie", coming to-morrow to the Dominion Theatre that it becomes almost a character in the story!

All the action is motivated by a piece of chocolate cake—or rather, the mouth-watering recollection of that delicacy in the mind of a homesick soldier overseas.

Impelled by an irresistible urge to visit his wife and taste her inimitable cake, Eddie Albert, hero of the film, goes AWOL and stows away on a week-end flight home, believing he will be able to return, on his three-day pass, without anyone being the wiser.

But the stork flies right along with him on that flight, and after the usual interval of time, Eddie finds himself a papa, without any valid proof that he has seen his wife in three years!

OAK BAY - PLAZA THEATRES

Returning to the country's movie houses after having won the Motion Picture Academy "best picture" award and the National Critics' Poll, David O. Selznick's "Rebecca," which is now at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres, has a cast that sparkles with prominent names.

In addition to Joan Fontaine and Laurence Olivier in the two starring roles, the roster of featured players includes George Sanders, Judith Anderson, Nigel Bruce, Reginald Denny, Gladys Cooper, C. Aubrey Smith and Leo G. Carroll.

CAPITOL THEATRE

In the original battalion of Commando Rangers, Stern carried his rifle and camera in the African invasion, was wounded in the battle of El Guettar, and later had a relapse of his wounds in the invasion of Sicily which resulted in his being returned to this country and discharged.

In "Nobody Lives Forever," now at the Capitol Theatre, Stern re-enacts his release from service in a sequence with Garfield, who plays a former Broadway gangster who fought in Sicily.

ATLAS THEATRE

A new record in laugh-provoking comedy teams is made when Eugene Pallette, Charlotte Greenwood and Edward Everett Horton appear together in the featured cast of 20th Century-Fox's new Technicolor musical hit "The Gang's All Here," which stars Alice Faye, Carmen Miranda, Phil Baker and Benny Goodman and his orchestra, and is now at the Atlas Theatre.

ROYAL THEATRE

Brian Donlevy portrays Rich- and Henry Dana Jr., whose famous book, "Two Years Before the Mast," changed the course of history. Donlevy is seen in the first film version of the novel, Paramount's production of the same name, which is now showing at the Royal Theatre. Other leading players in the cast are Alan Ladd, William Bendix and Barry Fitzgerald.

Anscomb Sees Tourists As B.C.'s Greatest Asset

Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb predicted Wednesday night that British Columbia's tourist trade would ultimately become the province's greatest industry.

"Before the war the tourist traffic brought about $20,000,000 to the province but that is but a flea bite of what can be done if our roads are put into shape," Mr. Anscomb, provincial leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, said. He spoke for 15 minutes during a "free-time" CBC radio broadcast.

Putting British Columbia's 30,000-mile highway system into shape, Mr. Anscomb suggested, would result in tourists coming to the province not once but many times.

Considering the mileage of B.C.'s roads, he said, "It must be readily realized what a tremendous problem it is, not only from a construction viewpoint, but from a money viewpoint as well."

He said it was only natural that the main highways must be given first consideration, because over them pass the commerce of the province, so vital and essential for the province's economic welfare.

Mr. Anscomb explained why the government felt it necessary to cancel the 20 per cent wartime rebate on auto licenses and for the provincial government to take over the three-cent Dominion government wartime gasoline tax.

Speaking of forestry Mr. Anscomb said, "The government is seized with the importance of the problem from a reforestation viewpoint particularly, so that we can bring our forests to what is known and now expressed as a 'sustained yield basis.' There is a tremendous problem in doing this—both from the viewpoint of cost and the element of time—when I say 'element of time' I mean the number of years that it takes to grow a tree."

FOREST REFORM

He said the problem was being dealt with in a very comprehensive manner and Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney would have far-reaching proposals to place before the legislature at the coming session next month.

Of the British Columbia Power Commission's work, Mr. Anscomb said:

"You will see that in establishing this undertaking the government has brought into being, within a short time, an important utility organization dedicated to the single purpose of improving the supply and availability of electrical energy. It already reaches over 22,000 homes and commercial establishments.

"This undertaking was not initiated by the Coalition government through any blind devotion to public ownership or any other political theory, but it was initiated, after the most careful consideration, as the most practical and economical method of providing adequate electrical services to industries, town and rural areas where service was inadequate, and, in some cases, non-existent. Under this government the expansion and operation of the undertaking will be in accordance with good business practice and not political expediency."

Mr. Anscomb said the arrangement under which the Progressive Conservatives and the Liberal Party had joined in the Coalition government "will remain, from the Conservative Party's viewpoint, as long as communism and socialism (the same in actual effect) threaten the economic life and freedom of our people. Both, as a matter of fact, are a greater menace today than ever before."

Set Up Plans Room On School Building

A separate room has been set aside in the Greater Victoria School Board offices at Craigdarroch in which all the blueprints, plans, models and correspondence relating to the school building program are being kept, J. F. K. English, senior municipal inspector of schools, said today.

Work is speeding on the plans for the nine schools and additions he said, which will be presented in a by-law to the ratepayers of Greater Victoria this spring or early summer. Total estimated cost of the building program is $3,500,000, with $1,750,000 to be borne by the ratepayers of the area. At the present time the provincial architect is working on five of the plans, including the three heaviest items, the three new junior high schools.

The planning room is open to all school board members, municipal officials and elected representatives and other interested citizens who wish to inspect the plans, Mr. English said.

Drivers Protest Income Tax Scales

Vancouver Island Drivers, Division 234, of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers will forward to Ottawa a protest that lower income groups are being shouldered with an unfair burden of income tax.

L. Davies, recording secretary, reported, following a discussion by the drivers, that the protest was being lodged with Ottawa officials in an effort to gain some relief for the low wage earner.

Annual installation of officers took place at the meeting as follows: R. Jones, president; G. Leeden, vice-president; J. S. Ready, secretary-treasurer; L. B. Davies, recording secretary; J. N. Vannier, warden; N. Roberts, guard, and W. Webb, reporter.

Upward Trend But Demand Timid

NEW YORK (AP) — Selected liquors, motors, utilities, steels and special issues moved upward in today's stock market, although demand still was more or less timid.

While dealings turned fairly active at intervals, slowdowns were plentiful after the opening. Scattered losers persisted near the close, but gains of fractions to a point or so predominated.

London Market

LONDON—The hyper-sensitive state of the stock market since the publication of the government's gloomy white paper on Britain's economic situation was further illustrated today when heaviness persisted until the close.

Partial rallies occurred from time to time, but at the close many stocks were down with little to be seen in the way of any upward movement. South African gold shares were a possible exception, and oil shares showed some resistance but elsewhere small selling persisted.

Government securities were dull.

Grain

WINNIPEG (CP)—Modest offerings by locals and commission houses, together with little outside interest in the market, sent rye futures prices down slightly on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

The United Kingdom took 300,000 bushels of Canadian wheat.

CHICAGO (AP)—Lower prices prevailed for grain throughout most of the session on the board of trade today.

Attention in wheat was focussed on the January delivery, which moved quickly in either direction on a small volume. Trading in this contract ceased at the close today. Selling in wheat came mainly from commission houses.

New Floods Threaten

ATLANTA (AP)—New river overflows in southern Alabama threatened today to cast a cloud over brightening prospects for relief from damaging floods in that state. The weather bureau forecast generally fair weather, which should be a help toward a return to normal in inundated areas in parts of the southern states, however.

Tug Company Here Converting Barge For New Service

Island Tug & Barge Ltd. is converting the former sailing ship, Island Forester, into a modern log-carrier to carry logs from points on the West Coast of Vancouver Island to Victoria, Vancouver, Woodfibre and Powell River, Harold B. Elworthy, president of the tug company announces.

The vessel, which has been owned by the company since 1936, was until recently operated as a log fuel barge between the Alberni area and Port Angeles.

Present work on the 323-foot all-steel vessel is to refit her for her new work and to equip her with three large derricks which will make it possible to load 1,000,000 feet of logs in two days.

The derricks, which were purchased from Burrard Drydock Co. Ltd., Vancouver, will be brought over here by the local company's own vessels and will be installed with the aid of the 100-ton crane at Esquimalt. Each of the derricks for the Island Forester is capable of lifting 15 tons.

The vessel is being refitted and modernized because of a contract secured by Island Tug & Barge Ltd. from Manning Lumber Mills Ltd. to haul logs from Nootka Sound, where the lumber company has acquired timber stands. It is expected the barge will be ready for her new service by next month.

Next vessel which may be converted by the tug company is an unfinished transport ferry purchased by Island Tug and Barge Ltd. last year and now berthed at Yarrows Ltd.

City Tugs To Renew Attempts To Free Grounded Freighter

Following unsuccessful salvage attempts Wednesday by three vessels of Island Tug and Barge Ltd., longshoremen today were lightering cargo from the 7,134-ton British freighter Fort Reliance in a new bid to free her from where she is grounded on a sandbar at the mouth of the Fraser River.

Three tug boats of the local tug company, the Island Champion, Island Challenger and Island Commander, are standing by for a new attempt Friday morning to free the ship after her load has been lightened.

The Fort Reliance is not believed to be seriously damaged. She may return to Vancouver for survey, or a diver may be sent down to investigate the extent of damage which may have been caused by the grounding.

The vessel was bound from Vancouver to Port Alberni to complete loading lumber for the United Kingdom when she ran aground four miles from Steveston.

A second grounded vessel, the 98-foot Island Mariner, of Vancouver Barge and Transportation Ltd., freed from the rocks between Sidney and James Islands, reached here Wednesday afternoon with the barge she was towing. Apparently not suffering serious damage, the Island Mariner again left for Vancouver where she is expected to undergo inspection.

The Island Planet and Island Rover of Island Tug and Barge went to the assistance of the Island Mariner after she had grounded.

The local tug company is also going to the aid of the 65-foot fishpacker, Victory Bay, owned by Millard Packing Co. Ltd. The Victory Bay suffered damage several days ago when she keeled over on her side as she was being drawn out on the ways at Nootka Sound. She punched a hole in her hull on the rocks.

By NANCY HODGES

PEERAGE AND PERQS

THAT HIGHLY RESPECTED record of respectability, that chronicler of the Empire's "upper crust," Debrett's Peerage, is busily engaged in one of its periodic blueblood hunts.

And in its search for missing heirs to some ancient titles it has extended tentative fingers to several places on this side of the world.

One of those fingers is probing in dusty documents and digging up old family trees to see whether a West Vancouver man, or one of his two rival claimants, should exchange the "Mr." for a "Sir."

All three of them have laid claim to a baronetage which dates back to the reign of Charles the First.

And as the Vancouver man is 86, and his brother, of Moose Jaw, who is also claiming the title, is 83 years old, it looks as if the searching committee will have to speed up a bit if either of the old gentlemen is to enjoy the prestige such a handle is supposed to confer.

HUNTING IN U.S.

FURTHER, as a result of Debrett's hunt, four Americans may emerge with the aura of British baronetcies, too.

One of them is Noel Wolseley of Manchester, N.H. According to C. F. J. Hankinson, editor of Debrett's, he is the known ranking heir to the Wolseley baronetcy, which dates back to 1745.

The present holder in England is a retired clergyman of 81, Sir William Augustus Wolseley, whose only child is a nurse. The New Hampshire man is the descendant of a branch of the family last heard of in Ireland 120 years ago.

But the hitch is that acceptance of a British title would mean forfeiture of United States citizenship. And Mr. Wolseley, who is 56, a native of Dublin, Ireland, and a work order clerk at an American army air base, when approached by a newsman, declared:

"I am not at all interested in receiving a baronetcy and would not forfeit my American citizenship if the title were offered."

THRILLED AT THOUGHT

ON THE OTHER HAND, Adrian Dunbar, of Henderson, Md., was so interested that he wrote to the authorities in England, saying "he thought he had a claim to the baronetcy of Dunbar, created in 1694, and wanted to know where he stood."

The search for an heir to this particular title was started in 1940, after the death of Richard Taylor Dunbar, whose son had disappeared after a quarrel with his father. Adrian is a first cousin of that missing son.

The claimant is a house painter and has been a U.S. citizen since 1937. His wife told a reporter they are "thrilled" at the prospect of a baronetcy.

But so far as is known, no money or property definitely goes with any of these particular titles. Nor are there any other "perqs," such as robes or coronets, for baronets.
